

ABSTRACT

A method of p-type doping in ZnO is provided. The method includes forming an acceptor-doped material having ZnO under reducing conditions, thereby insuring a high donor density. Also, the specimens of the acceptor-doped material are annealed at 5 intermediate temperatures under oxidizing conditions so as to remove intrinsic donors and activate impurity acceptors.